Property Description

* Guide Price £400,000 - £425,000 ****

This three-bedroom semi-detached home offers considerably more space than you might expect, with generous proportions, a gated driveway, detached garage and a private garden designed for outdoor entertaining.

The accommodation has a strong sense of space from the moment you enter. An L-shaped entrance hall connects the principal ground-floor rooms and leads to the staircase rising to the first floor, while a ground floor WC is a practical addition for both everyday living and guests.

At the front of the house, the kitchen/breakfast room has been fitted with shaker-style cabinetry, quartz work surfaces and a breakfast area, complemented by underfloor heating.

The separate dining room provides a dedicated space for everyday dining and entertaining, positioned conveniently between the kitchen and main living room.

One of the standout rooms is the lounge, with parquet flooring and a feature fireplace. A wide bay with glazed doors and windows opens directly onto the garden, creating a natural connection between the living space and outside.

Upstairs, the principal bedroom is particularly generous, with a wide bay window and fitted wardrobes. The second double bedroom also benefits from fitted wardrobes.

The third bedroom is currently arranged as a study, giving the house flexibility for those needing a home office. The family bathroom has been finished with contemporary tiling and underfloor heating, completing the first-floor accommodation.

Outside, the property continues to set itself apart. Electric gates open onto a resin-bound driveway running alongside the house, providing extensive off-road parking, with a detached garage positioned at the rear.

The garden has been arranged as a private, low-maintenance space for relaxing and entertaining, surrounded by established planting and mature trees. There is ample room for outdoor dining and seating, together with a built-in barbecue, creating an inviting outdoor space.
